22 COUNTIES TO SEND DOCTORS HERE FOR MEET

Experts in Medicine and Surgery Will Address District Association.

300 MEMBERS EXPECTED

Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland Clinic Among Men on Program.

Recognized authorities of the medical profession including Dr. George W. Crile of Cleveland and Dr. William F. Braasch of the Mayo clinic at Rochester, Minn., will address approximately 300 surgeons and physicians from 22 Ohio counties in Hotel Harding Tuesday in the eighty-ninth annual session of the Northwestern Ohio Medical association.

The all-day program, which has been nearly a year in preparation, will bring to Marion probably the most imposing array of surgical and medical talent ever gathered here at one time.

To Elect Officers

For the most part, the meeting will be taken up in discussion of technical phases of surgery and medical treatment. Nine surgeons and physicians, all nationally known, will speak.

At a business session in conjunction with the meeting, officers for the ensuing year will be elected. Dr. E. H. Morgan of Marion is president of the association.

All addresses will be given in the ballroom of Hotel Harding. Those scheduled for the morning session include a discussion on "Malignancies of Para-nasal Sinuses" by Dr. Hugh Gibson Beatty of Columbus; an address on "Recurrent Duodenal and Newly formed Jejunal and Gastro-Jejunal Ulceration after Excision and Gastroenterostomy" by Dr. A. A. Berg of New York City, prominent surgeon of Mt. Sinai Hospital; a discussion on "Sterility and Its Treatment," by Dr. Paul Titus of Pittsburgh, Pa. The latter two subjects will be illustrated with lantern slides.

Luncheon at Sawyer's

Luncheon will be held at the Sawyer sanatorium, on White Oaks farm.

Dr. George W. Crile is to speak first on the afternoon program. His topic will be "Adrenal Denervation—Principle Involved, Clinical End-Results, Especially in Neuro-circulatory Asthenia, Peptic Ulcer, Diabetes and Recurrent Hyperthyroidism."

Other speakers for the afternoon session include Dr. Nathan S. Davis III, of Chicago, Ill., who will talk on "Cardiac Infraction Without

AUTHORITIES FREE "PIRATE" SUSPECTS

Mrs. Collings Says Dr. Ritchie and Son Are Not Yacht Slayers.

By The Associated Press

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla., Oct. 3—Dr. Leslie D. Ritchie and his son were released from custody here early today when Mrs. Benjamin P. Collings failed to identify them as the "pirates" who recently boarded the Collings yacht on Long Island sound, killed her husband and abducted her.

With an attorney, William L. Kelley, the Stamford, Conn., yachtsman's widow arrived here at midnight from New York to view the Ritchies who were arrested two days before. They went to the jail after stopping a short time at a hotel.

Only officers and attorneys were present when Mrs. Collings confronted the two prisoners. They stood in a group of 12 men of similar appearance.

She singled them out readily, but, she said, it was because she had previously seen pictures of them. As Mrs. Collings shook her head negatively, Dr. Ritchie spoke up.

"I am not the man," he said.

"No," Mrs. Collings asserted.

"Thank you," said Ritchie.

Then William Ritchie, 23-year-old son of the former veterinarian, rushed up to Mrs. Collings and shook her hand emotionally.

A few minutes after Mrs. Collings failed to identify the Ritchies, the pair was released from custody.

BOSTWICK TO FACE COURT ON MONDAY

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3—Homer Z. Bostwick, recently ousted as probate judge of Franklin county, and four other persons will be arraigned next week on charges of blackmail arising from an alleged conspiracy to force Mrs. Opal Eversole to surrender a diamond ring she said the jurist gave her.

Bostwick, Franklin Rubrecht, former assistant prosecutor; Charles E. McGannon, former probate clerk; John Cooper, an attorney, and Nathan C. Hirsch, salesman, were indicted late yesterday. Their bond was set at $1,000 each and Prosecutor Donald J. Herbert announced they probably would be arraigned Monday.

Bostwick was removed from office Sept. 22, following a hearing before a three-judge court on charges of misconduct, malfeasance and nonfeasance in connection with the slug case.

ASSAILS STATE DRY LAW HEADS

Dismissal Due to Raids Made Without Official Permit, Baynham Says.

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3—George A. Baynham of Columbus, ousted as a state prohibition agent by Commissioner Clarence Sears, today blamed his dismissal upon his activities in raiding various clubs without first obtaining authority from the Columbus office.

The charge was made in a letter to Commissioner Sears and a copy which was sent to Governor White. He claimed that the department had issued orders that no raids should be made upon clubs without the permission of the state department head.

Tells of Transfers

Baynham attributed his transfers to various divisions of the state by his activities in raiding clubs in Lorain, Canton and Youngstown.

COOPER TO RUN FOR GOVERNOR, SILVER SAYS

Tax Relief To Provide Basis of Drive; "Board of Strategy" Formed.

By International News Service.

COLUMBUS, O., Oct. 3—Former Governor Myers T. Cooper has definitely decided to become a candidate for reelection in 1932 and will wage his campaign on a platform advocating an earned income tax and an increased utility tax, it was learned here today.

MYERS Y. COOPER

His "Board of strategy" already has been set up in part, and a test of Republican sentiment has been conducted, showing his chances of staging a political comeback to be "very favorable," former Finance Director Harry D. Silver, Cooper's former campaign manager, revealed to International News Service in an interview.

A campaign cry for a substitute or a relief for "the present burdensome property tax" will be relied upon to carry Cooper victoriously back to the state executive mansion, Silver said.

Announcement Scheduled

The formal announcement of Cooper's determination to enter the fight for the Republican nomination at the August primaries will be withheld until after the municipal elections, according to Silver, who is generally regarded as Cooper's spokesman.

As now drawn up, the Cooper-Silver earned income tax plan will be suggested to the state as a so-

25,000 PERSONS SEE 1931 COUNTY FAIR

Board Estimates Crowd; 13,000 Admissions Paid at Gate; To Determine Future.

The 1931 Marion county fair was a success so far as attendance is concerned, it was disclosed this morning when Secretary Carl W. Sifritt announced that 25,000 persons had visited the grounds during the week.

Whether the fair was a financial success, figuring in the decreased admission charge of 25 cents, and considering that only aproximately 13,000 persons paid admission fees, will be determined by the board today and early next week.

To Determine Future

Other business prevented the board from holding its regular meeting on the last fair day yesterday. Whether support given the fair this year justifies its continuation in future years will be decided by the board, which last year announced that the 1931 exposition would be a deciding factor of the future of the Marion county fair.

The number of paid admissions yesterday dropped to 4,300, as compared with a record of 7,000 paid admissions Thursday. However, the grounds were crowded to capacity with thousands of school pupils, admitted free.

The final rodeo performance last night packed the grandstand to capacity. This program was the last feature of the official fair program.

Exhibits Removed

Exhibitors began removing their displays at 4 p. m. yesterday. The fair board paid 30 per cent of the premium awards on the grounds. The rodeo, after its final performance, today was preparing to go to Coshocton, where it will next perform.

Fair officials last night averted a movement on the part of 12 concession holders to "hold out" on their contracts. Contracts called for payment of concession rights by Thursday, but the board extended this time to Friday night. When the concession men announced they would pay only part of the contract price, police were called and attachment writs were prepared. The concession men settled last night without any arrests.

JUDGE FACES INVESTIGATION

Portsmouth Man Accused by Woman Clerk Freed Under Bond.

By The Associated Press

PORTSMOUTH, O., Oct. 3—Municipal Judge William R. Sprague, held responsible by Mrs. Marguerite Clark Tidd, 25, for alleged shortages in her accounts as clerk in his court, was under $10,000 bond today pending investigation of the woman's charges.

Judge Sprague was ordered arrested yesterday by Common Pleas Judge Russell McCurdy, presiding in the embezzlement trial of Mrs. Tidd. He voluntarily left the municipal bench and named J. Alden Staker acting judge.

Mrs. Tidd two days ago testified she had been intimate with the judge and that he was responsible for discrepancies in her accounts. Sprague, called as a state witness yesterday, was placed under arrest, after he told Judge McCurdy he had taken money from the municipal court cash drawer and replaced it with his own personal checks.

Sprague's personal bank account would not cover all of the checks, bank officials testified.

Mrs. Tidd had testified she resigned as clerk last May at Sprague's request and assumed responsibility for the alleged shortage with the understanding she would be reemployed after the November election. She was charged with embezzling $2,115.

Sprague was released under $10,000 bond until formal charges are filed by Prosecutor Cameron Meacham. The judge said he would demand an immediate grand jury investigation.

Mrs. Tidd's case was expected to be given to the jury late today. Only one state witness remained to be heard in rebuttal testimony.

DEAD CHILD'S BODY CLAIMED BY FATHER

Mystery in Death Cleared as Remains Are Taken to Kentucky.

Special to The Star

UPPER SANDUSKY, Oct. 3—Charles Gully arrived here Friday afternoon to get the body of his infant daughter, who died last Sunday night at the Gully home south of Marseilles. The remains were taken to Morehead, Ky., where burial will be made. The body had rested at the Bringman & Co. funeral home in this city in the meantime.

Although the baby died a natural death, an undertaker was not notified until the baby had been dead a day. Then the undertaker was notified by neighbors living near the Gully home. No details as to the date of birth of the baby could be obtained from the parents, either after the baby died or when the father called for the remains yesterday.

The mother disappeared Wednesday, presumably going to Kentucky, it was reported.

LAST PRETENDER TO THRONE DIES

By The Associated Press

PARIS, Oct. 3—Don Jaime of Bourbon, last of the direct pretenders to the throne of Spain, died in exile last night after a brief attack. He was 62 and unmarried.

He was stricken while motoring to Chantilly with two of his associates and was brought back to his home in Paris. A priest and a physician were summoned and he passed away moments later.

His death came only a week after it was announced that his grandnephew, King Alfonso, the deposed ruler, had ended their bitter enmity and hopefuls would have to appear for the abdication of Spain.

Rich, Poor Alike Mourn Death of Thomas Lipton

By United Press

LONDON, O., Oct 3—Sir Thomas Lipton, beloved wherever men admire real sportsmen, will be buried in his native Scotland.

Plans for the funeral of the noted business and yachtsman who died last night at the age of 81 were made today. Services will be at 2:30 p. m. Wednesday at the southern metropolis in Glasgow.

The death of Sir Thomas, who was the "world's finest loser" as a yachtsman, was mourned today by Britons from the exclusive confines of the Royal Yacht squadron to the slums of his native Glasgow.

As plans for his funeral went forward, there was much speculation as to the size of his estate and who would inherit it. He never

RAIL MERGER REQUEST FILED

Principal Eastern Roads Submit Application with Commission.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—Principal eastern railroads today asked the Interstate commerce commission to permit them to consolidate into four systems.

The plan — presented by the Pennsylvania, the Baltimore & Ohio, the New York Central and the Chesapeake Ohio-Nickel Plate system—materially alters the consolidation plan proposed by the interstate commerce commission in December, 1929.

The commission plan, drawn after lengthy hearings, provided five systems in the east.

The four system plan eliminates the northern end of the Wabash-Seaboard system suggested by the commission and extends the Pennsylvania railroad as far south as Wadsboro, Durham and Kirkland, N. C., and Bristol, Tenn.-Va.

The plan represents a compromise of many phases of a problem which has been in negotiation eight years or more.

The new plan was described as requiring comparatively small expenditures by the petitioning systems. Most of the principal lines involved already are owned by the carriers seeking to incorporate them into one system.

COMPARISON GIVEN

Figures Show Relative Size and Earnings of Lines

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—Here's how the proposed four eastern railroad systems compare:

Mileage: Baltimore & Ohio, 11,000; Chesapeake & Ohio, 12,500; Pennsylvania 18,500; New York Central 13,000

Investment in road and equipment: Baltimore & Ohio, $2,000,000,000; Chesapeake & Ohio — Nickel Plate, $2,000,000,000; Pennsylvania, $3,300,000,000; New York Central, $2,500,000,000.

Net railway operating income in 1929 was: Baltimore & Ohio, $90,000,000; Chesapeake & Ohio—Nickel Plate—$113,000,000; Pennsylvania, $280,000,000; New York Central, $120,000,000.

Trial of the county prosecutor, who is charged with unprofessional conduct and misconduct in office, was completed yesterday with the submission of 30 witnesses and the hearing of final arguments.

POLICE IN BATTLE WITH GLASGOW MOB

Fierce Street Fighting Climaxes Two-Day Protest of Dole Cut.

By The Associated Press

GLASGOW, Scotland, Oct. 3 — The usual vindictive rioting and looting in years, extending intermittently over two nights and a day, came to a climax early today when police swept the streets clean and restored order.

Resuming about 8:30 last night, the battle between jobless men demonstrating against dole reductions and the forces of the law raged for more than six hours. An undetermined number of rioters and several police were injured and upwards of 100 arrests were made.

The melee began when police charged a body of about 100 men who were holding a manifestation outside the jail in which John McGovern, Labor M. P. and his lieutenants were being held for Thursday night's outbreak. Almost simultaneously trouble started in the Gallowgate, Glasgow Cross and other sections of the city.

Far outnumbered, the police tried on foot and horseback to disperse the mobs. They charged time and again with loaded batons and the rioters replied with hammers, hatchets and makeshift weapons of every description. A variety of missiles thrown from neighboring houses added to the uproar.

The police finally got the upper-hand and mounted patrol over streets that were littered with loot and the debris of battle. Scores of marauders were dragged into police stations with blood streaming from their wounds.

ASK EMPTY ROOM TO START SOUP KITCHEN

Salvation Army Makes Plea for Aid in Feeding Transients.

Donation of the use of an empty storeroom for the next four months will provide another step toward caring for transient unemployed men in the city, it was announced today by Captain John Hunter of the Salvation Army in his plea for the establishment of a soup kitchen to be operated under the auspices of the organization.

Because of the increase in the unemployed, resulting in the establishment of a soup kitchen, the demand already has been so great that the present Army kitchen, which has been operating for the past two months, has been unable to meet the demand. Captain Hunter said.

ROAD BATTLE COMES TO END

Lincoln Designated as Route "30 North"; Harding is "30 South."

FIRST ORDER REVERSED

Merrell Believed To Have Recommended Equal Division.

With the erection yesterday of "route 30 north" signs on the Lincoln highway between Delphos and Mansfield, and "route 30 south" signs on the section of the Harding highway joining these same cities, the end apparently had been reached in the battle of Marion, Galion, Kenton and Lima for an equal division of federal route 30.

Although committees from cities along the southern route, favoring an equal split, had been received sympathetically by Governor White, and his assistance had been promised, the steps responsible for the equal division are not yet known in detail.

Merrell at Meeting

In the opinion of Carl J. Gugler of Galion, president of the Harding Highway association, O. W. Merrell, state highway director, succeeded in his efforts to have the even split ordered by the National Association of Highway officials, in session at Salt Lake City, Utah, this week. Gugler said Governor White, at a recent appearance in Galion, had assured him that Merrell was to attend the meeting and would recommend an equal division.

Last January, the National Association of State Highway Officials, in session at Chicago, designated the Lincoln Highway as "federal route 30" between Delphos and Mansfield, and designated the Harding highway between the two cities as "federal route 30 south."

Since last January, the Marion chamber of commerce and groups from other cities along the Harding highway took steps to regain the title of route 30 for Harding highway, or at least an equal division.

Committee on Job

A committee consisting of C. B. King and Dr. C. J. Altmaier of Marion and W. W. Durbin of Kenton worked with the state officials toward an equal division. After correspondence with state officials, it was announced that the markers for the routes, as designated last January by the national association, would not be placed until November, giving the committee additional time to work before the change became effective.

A spirited contest between cities along the Lincoln and Harding highways for federal route 30 has been in progress several years. Efforts of cities along the Lincoln highway or northern route, including Bucyrus, Upper Sandusky and Crestline, to obtain the federal route have been opposed by Marion, Galion, Kenton and Lima.

MARION COUNTY FAIR CLOSES SUCCESSFUL HARNESS RACE MEET

Two Minor Mishaps Feature Final Day's Events of Program.

One of the most successful harness race meetings ever held in connection with the Marion county fair closed yesterday with a three-event program. Two minor spills that resulted in injury to neither horses or drivers marred the afternoon's racing to a slight extent. For the third consecutive day it was necessary to run an extra heat to decide the winner of one race.

Starter Vic Peters experienced considerable difficulty in getting the horses away from the post yesterday. In the first heat of the 2:16 pace the field scored 13 times before Colonel Volo reared and threw his driver, McMahon, and ran half way around the track before being halted. This halted attempts at starting the heat for a short time. Three more attempts were made later before the race was started.

Razoff, driven by J. Jackman of Toledo, duplicated the Colonel Volo stunt in the 2:16 trot after six unsuccessful attempts had been made to start the race. However, both Colonel Volo and Razoff ran in the races, despite the mishaps.

Time for Friday's races was the fastest turned in in the three days of racing. General Brewer stepped out in the 2:16 pace and flashed across the finish line in 2:07½ to cop the event in straight heats. Black Jolly took the 2:16 trot in 2.09¾ and the three-year-old trot was run off in 2:12½.

The extra heat was required for the three-year-old trot. Medley, Wayne Frisco and Scott Wilson took a heat apiece in the first three and Medley then stepped out to beat Scott Wilson in the extra and deciding heat. Time was slow for the extra heat, the winner circling the over in 2:19½. The owner, William Hughes and driver, Hunter, of Medley, besides winning first money in this race were given a dinner by W. D. Mittenbuehler of the Harding Hotel for winning the race.

Red Birds Jubilant as "Wild Bill" Hangs Horse Collars on World's Champions.

BY EDWARD J. NEIL,
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. LOUIS, Oct. 3 — The sun shone brightly today and there was music in the Missouri air. Citizens whistled cheerfully as they went about their chores. Even old man Mississippi seemed to chuckle softly as he drifted placidly past the shores of the city. The beloved St. Louis Cardinals, idols of this countryside, had turned at last upon their tormentors.

It seems that after all the National league champions are not a sort of beautiful but helpless tribe of the baseball world, tripping dizzily about under the spell of that horrible Svengali of the diamond, the world championship Philadelphia Athletics.

Instead the Cardinals, after having been hypnotized upon all but one important occasion by the great Lefty Grove in the opening game of the world series, headed eastward today for the third, fourth and fifth games of the series in Philadelphia on even terms with the haughty champions of the world.

Almost Dumped It

The Cards, to be sure, suffered from dizziness a few moments in the ninth inning of yesterday's game, second of the series, before the brilliant pitching of Wild Bill Hallahan, the hitting and base running of "Pepper" Martin, and the defensive skill of Jim Bottomley finally broke the spell and brought St. Louis staggering to the finish line a 2 to 0 victor.

To add to the impressiveness of the occasion from the Cardinal viewpoint, the Athletics' hurler was none other than "Big Jarge" Earnshaw, Connie Mack's right handed ace. Against all the Cards but Martin, Earnshaw was just as good as he was in 1930, when he beat them twice and pitched 23 scoreless innings, but with this cocky youngster, who hit safely twice, stole two bases and scored both runs, he could do nothing at all.

While the pitching duel of Earnshaw and Hallahan, whose wildness after the third inning kept him constantly pulling out of desperate holes had the crowd of 35,000 in a state of tremor, in one of the wildest finishes ever put to a world series game.

To open the hectic ninth inning, Hallahan issued his sixth base on balls to Jimmy Foxx, and with one out he gave his seventh to Jimmy Dykes. Young Dib Williams, overanxious, fanned and Connie Mack, making his final effort to break the defense, sent the Texan, Jim Moore, to bit for Earnshaw.

Moore Pinch Hitting

Putting everything he could muster on the ball, Hallahan swept two strikes past Moore. He whipped over a third, but Jim tipped it for a foul and Jimmy Wilson, Card catcher, failed to hold it. Then Hallahan fired a curve ball that seemed to break fully a yard. Moore lunged frantically, missed the ball and bounced into the dirt at Wilson's feet.

Moore, realizing the third strike had not been caught, dashed for first base and to the amusement of the crowd, Wilson, instead of Tossing to first for a simple put-out, final out of the game, fired the ball to Jake Flowers at third base. Apparently he chose to make a force play on Foxx, who had dashed for the bag with the pitch.

As soon as Flowers caught the ball, the Cards flocked in from their positions, believing the game over. Hallahan raced for the dug-out and even Moore stopped in his dash to first base. Only Eddie Collins, Athletic coach, visualized the situation immediately. Frantically he shouted to Dykes and Foxx to hold their bases while he chased Moore to first.

A Dizzy Ending

The dazed Cards wandered around and finally received the umpire's decision that all hands were safe. The bases were filled, and Max Bishop was at bat. Amid tremendous excitement Bishop lifted a high foul out to Jim Bottomley, who tumbled into the crowd, the ball and victory tight in his grasp.

A brilliant double play, engineered by Frankie Frisch and Charley Gelbert saved another desperate situation in the fifth inning after passes to Fox and Williams, with Bing Miller's single in between had filled the bases with one out.

The one-man scoring raids of young Martin, who hit safely three times in the first game, were singed in the second and seventh innings. In the second Pepper doubled, stole third and rode home on Wilson's long fly. Martin singled in the seventh, stole second, went to third on an infield out and scored on Gelbert's sacrifice hunt.

The Athletics left for home by special train last night and were scheduled to reach Philadelphia at 5 p. m. (Marion time) today. The Cardinals delayed their departure until today.

PLENTY OF ACTION ON WRESTLING CARD

Banaski To Spot Riley Weight in Opening Shovel Show Monday.

Plenty of action is scheduled for the main go of the opening wrestling card at the Steam Shovel gym Monday night when Joe Banaski and Pat Riley tangle horns.

Riley is the big Irish heavyweight who has been setting things on fire in the country where the shamrocks grow. He will be spotted quite a few pounds by Banaski.

Banaski is the former light heavyweight champion who has made numerous appearances on the local mat. He is well known here for his pulishing flying and slam holds. Banaski has put on quite a few pounds since he lost the championship several weeks ago. Critics say he is even better in the heavyweight ranks than in the lighter class.

Banaski puts on an exceptionally clean and fast show.

A semi-final and a preliminary match have been booked. The advance ticket sale has opened at Maibert & Lewis.

Cincinnati To Oppose Bucks in Lid-Lifter

By The Associated Press

COLUMBUS O., Oct. 3—For the first time in 12 years the University of Cincinnati Bearcats will help Ohio State university open its football season this afternoon, before a predicted crowd of 17,000 persons.

Today's game will culminate three weeks of practice for the Buckeyes and will give followers their first glimpse of sophomore talent under fire. No less than four first year men will be in the starting lineup at 2 o'clock this afternoon. The other seven men all have won letters in previous campaigns.

No flashy football is in prospect for the fans. It will be straight football, minus all the tricks of the trade.

EVANSTON, Ill., Oct 3—Northwestern's Wildcats labeled far and wide as one of the strongest contenders for the next national football championship, found themselves confronted by a notorious crew of giant killers from Nebraska today as they opened their 1931 campaign.

On the basis of experience and past performance, the Wildcats were big favorites to turn back the Cardinal jerseyed invaders but they recalled vividly enough that it was a Cornhusker team, which used to lick Notre Dame when others fell down on the big job.

Northwestern was strictly on the "football spot" for its opening battle of the 1931 wars and the situation was a large handicap.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Oct. 3—Football's biggest question of 1931, "what will Notre Dame do without Rockne?" receives its first reply today.

Minus the guiding genius of their late master but as husky and ambitious as ever, Notre Dame's big football team makes its first start of the season today against Indiana.

No one really expected a victory for Indiana but the world of football was anxious to hear the result, to learn what can be expected, and to see if another national championship eleven was to carry on at Notre Dame.

LAFAYETTE, Ind., Oct. 3—Purdue's 1931 football squad faces its first test today in a double header with Western Reserve and Coe college of Iowa. The highly-regarded Boilermaker aggregation was split into two separate teams for the afternoon, and Coach Noble Kizer hoped it would not be necessary to use any one player in both games. He announced he would start his more experienced players against Coe. The first game, against Western Reserve was scheduled for 2 p. m., Marion time.

CUBS TAKE LEAD IN CITY SERIES GAME

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—Rogers Hornsby's Cubs today were the hitless wonders of the 1931 Chicago city series championship.

Although they have been able to collect but 16 hits in three games off the pitching of the White Sox moundsmen—Red Faber, Vic Fraser and Ted Lyons—the Cubs had a two to one edge in the series. They were blanked 2 to 0 by Faber in the first game, captured the second 1 to 0, and the third yesterday, 2 to 1.

Pat Malone's fire ball was slated to work for the Cubs today while Al Thomas was expected to pitch for the White Sox.

HARDING FAVORED TO GAIN FIRST VICTORY IN DELAWARE GAME

Presidents Open Home Grid Season at Fairground Field Today.

BY BOB KIRKPATRICK
Sports Editor, The Star

With the opening North Central Ohio league engagement just one week in the foreground, Harding high school's gridiron gallopers today were booked to clash with Delaware High school on Fairground field at 2:30 p. m. It was the first home stand of the year for the Presidents and they are seeking their first victory of the season, a previous game with Columbus South having ended in a 6-6 deadlock.

Harding having inaugurated the 1932 season with at least a portion of that zip and dash reminiscent of palmier days when the Presidents were a power to be reckoned with in central Ohio gridiron circles, there is considerable reason to believe that the Red and Black colors will emerge victorious from today's conflict.

Delaware, despite the fact it was soundly thumped last week, is bringing no mean aggregation to Marion today. While nothing like the equal of the championship outfit of 1930 the Delawarians will present a varied and fast moving attack. Should the Presidents decide to take the game in too light a manner there is quite likely to be considerable "gridiron galloping" done and it won't be done by boys wearing red and black jerseys. Harding is a pre-game favorite to win by a pair of touchdowns. Incidentally this is the first time in more than a year the Presidents have entered a game on the top side of the odds.

Coach D. N. Bohyer will probably start his entire first string lineup against Delaware although substitutions are certain to be made before the game has progressed to a late stage. Last week 11 men carried the burden the entire game but replacements must be developed before Harding opens the league battles and this is the last chance to give them some first hand experience before the flag race gets started.

The teams will probably line up as follows at the start of the game.

Harding		Delaware
McDaniels	le	P. Sell
Ling	lt	Roberts
Martin	lg	J. Sell
Williams	c	Fleming
Jevne	rg	Hagaman
Clay	rt	Rybolt
Hagan	re	Elston

Guthrie	lh	Hopper
Keller	rh	Brown

A fast and flashy mile course has been laid out in Lake Merritt, in the heart of Oakland, Cal., in preparation for the national outboard motor championships in October.

Rufus Meadows, left-handed pitching ace of the Topeka Western league club, who will report to the Yanks' camp next spring, had a one-hit game to his credit this summer.

Watkins Starts Things

George Watkins, Cardinal right fielder, started the action for St. Louis in the first inning of the second game of the World Series by going to second on a hit over center. This Associated Press telephoto shows him safe at second when Mule Haas handled the ball slowly.

Mid-West Teams To Battle Strong Opposition Today

BY HERBERT W. BARKER
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 3—While the east's major football elevens had cannon-fodder in small college opponents today, leading teams in the mid-west, far west and south leaped right into the midst of the fray with a dozen outstanding games.

Indiana hardly was expected to press Notre Dame in the ramblers first start under the coaching leadership of Hunk Anderson, but Northwestern's Wildcats, co-champions, with Michigan, of the Big Ten, figured to have at least a handful with the Cornhuskers of Nebraska.

The Iowa Hawkeyes took their stand at Iowa City against Jock Sutherland's Pitt Panthers and Minnesota expected no day of leisure with the Oklahoma Aggies in the southwest the one big clash of the day sent Texas against Missouri of the Big Six, although Texas Christian's duel with the strong Tulsa elevens of the Oklahoma "Big Four" also attracted attention.

The south came forward with one intersectional contest involving the Texas Aggies and Tulane, and a half dozen southern conference duels, notably those between South Carolina and Georgia Tech, Maryland and Virginia, Vanderbilt and North Carolina and Tennessee and Clemson. Georgia started against Virginia Poly and Florida against North Carolina State. There were other conference frays but these topped the list.

The Pacific coast conference season opened with a clash between Southern California and Oregon State and with two other conference games involving Washington and Montana on the one hand and Oregon and Idaho on the other, California meets Slip Madigan's sensational St. Mary outfit, conquerors of Southern California, and Stanford plays Santa Clara.

In the east, close action was expected between Fordham and West Virginia, Georgetown and Western Maryland and Washington & Jefferson and Carnegie Tech. Knox college of Illinois met Army's powerful eleven, Dayton stacked up against Boston college, William & Mary sought to stop the Navy and South Dakota Wesleyan clashed with Davis & Elkins. This was the season's opening day for Harvard, Yale, Princeton and some other large colleges.

HOLE-IN-ONE

Clifford L. Gorton of south High street yesterday joined the ranks of that exclusive society of golfers who have scored a hole-in-one. Gorton, swinging a midiron club, wafted the sphere along the fairway of the 150-yard No. 6 hole of the Marion Country club straight into the cup yesterday afternoon. W. G. Lusch was his opponent at the time.

This is not the first hole in one made on the Country club course. Four others are reported to have been turned in previously to Gorton's accomplishment.

BUCYRUS IS BEATEN 20-13; ASHLAND WINS

Columbus South Stops Redmen; Hilltoppers Beat New London.

Whatever hopes Bucyrus may have had for a third consecutive gridiron victory went glimmering in the last few minutes of a game with Columbus South last night as Oberlander passed the ball over Pope's head and South recovered near the Bucyrus goal. Anlich drove the ball over for the deciding points in the 20-13 victory for South. Talbot and Pope led the Bucyrus offense, picking up yardage on nearly every attempt. South was outplayed most of the game.

In the only other Friday game in which an N. C. O. team took part, Ashland took the measure of a hard fighting New London eleven 13-6. Ashland was given a battle all the way by the smaller school. The other four N. C. O. teams will play today, Mansfield meeting Columbus Aquinas, Shelby playing Willard and Galion meeting Crestline. Harding will play Delaware.

RIGHT HANDERS TO OPPOSE EACH OTHER

By The Associated Press

LEXINGTON PARK, ST PAUL, Minn., Oct. 3—Two right handers were selected by managers of the St. Paul and Rochester clubs today to hurl their respective clubs to victory in the third game of the little world series here.

William "Slim" Harriss, elongated Saint mainstay, was selected by Manager A. P. Leifield to take the mound for the American association champions. Bill Southworth, director of the destinies of the Rochester team, placed his faith in Ray Moss, former hurler for the St. Louis and Boston teams of the National league.

Both teams have grabbed off a victory in the all-important series from which will emerge the champion of the minor leagues.

Bill Brigham, Greenville, S. C., who played football, basketball and baseball at the University of South Carolina, is pitching with Wareham, Mass., in the Cape Cod league.

TWENTY-EIGHT OHIO COLLEGE TEAMS TO SEE ACTION TODAY

Wesleyan-Heidelberg, Ohio State-Cincinnati Games Headline Buckeye Card.

By The Associated Press

Twenty-eight Buckeye eleven charged into action today on the football fronts with a number of choice games in the cards.

Holding major interest, however, were the Ohio State-Cincinnati and the Heidelberg-Ohio Wesleyan games. Ohio State made its first start of the season, while Heidelberg had a record of 10 straight victories to defend.

The Student Princes downed Wesleyan a year ago, but today the Bishops had the advantage in both weight and speed.

Denison's big red had a share in the limelight. Not only was George Rich, former University of Michigan star, making his coaching debut, but Denison was pitted against Hillsdale, Mich., who upset Chicago last week.

Dayton in East

The University of Dayton flyers were in the east for an intersectional clash with Boston college. Western Reserve was the only other Ohio team traveling from the state, meeting Purdue at Lafayette Ind.

Ohio university began its defense of its Buckeye Athletic Association title against Butler, an Indiana aggregation of unknown strength and a newcomer to the conference.

Ashland and Wooster in one battle and Baldwin-Wallace and Case in another provided the attractions in the northeastern section of the state.

Other games were: Ohio Northern-Bluffton, Miami-Ball Teachers, Kent State-Oberlin, Rio Grande-Marietta, Hiram-Otterbein, Urbana-Capital, Mount Union-Bowling Green, Olivet-Defiance, New River State-Wilmington and West Kentucky Teachers-Wilberforce.

Wittenberg Extended

Xavier and Muskingum won easy victories last night over Kenyon and Findlay, respectively, but Wittenberg was extended to conquer a determined John Carroll eleven. The Lutheran, held scoreless for the first half unleashed a powerful drive in the last two periods to gain a 33 to 6 triumph.

Xavier discovered a driving fullback in Hal Pennington, who started in the place of injured Hal McPhail, and followed him to a 41 to 0 victory over Kenyon. Pennington crossed the goal line three times.

Forward passing enabled Muskingum to conquer Findlay 21 to 0 without a great deal of trouble.

Week-end specials feature fancy apples of the Grimes Golden variety and Jonathans, with potatoes. Tokay grapes and celery also offered at special prices. The fancy packed Grimes and Jonathans are selling for 60 cents a bushel. U. S. grade No. 1 white Cobbler potatoes being 60 cents a bushel today and celery sells for 15 cents a bunch. Three pounds of Tokay grapes for 25 cents is the grape special at most dealers.

A surprise came about on the peach market, with the price of the New York state variety advancing to four pounds for a quarter. The supply shipped in is lessened considerably by the higher prices. The quality is good.

Dealers are looking for kraut cabbage on the market the first part of next week. Sweet potatoes are down a trifle, selling at ten pounds for 25 cents at most dealers. Dry onions of the home grown variety are down in price with the supply at peak height at present. They are selling at 25 cents for 10 pounds. Sweet corn, with demand light, is practically off the market and watermelons have almost entirely disappeared with only small ones of medium quality being offered. New lima beans are selling higher, with dealers getting about 45 cents a quart.

GRAIN PRICES SAG LOWER

Weakness in Liverpool Quotations Sends Prices Downward at Chicago.

By The Associated Press

CHICAGO, Oct. 3—Grain prices ...ngred early today, influenced by relative weakness of wheat quotations at Liverpool and by fresh setbacks in Wall street securities. Estimates of 10 per cent decrease in 1921 domestic winter wheat acreage failed to serve as a counter-balance. Opening at a shade to ¼@½ cent decline, wheat continued to point downward. Corn started unchanged to ¼ off and later receded all around, with all deliveries outdoing the season's low price record.

Reports of generally excellent wheat crop prospects in the southern hemisphere were accompanied by a decline of Argentine exchange. Another bearish factor was talk that with practically every wheat crop export country undercutting the United States. An advance was unlikely despite present low prices.

Corn price breaks went hand in hand with downturns in securities and with persistent big receipts of corn here, 365 cars. This total contrasted with 108 cars a week ago and 121 at this time last year. Primary arrivals of corn were 656,000 bushels, compared with 522,000 on the corresponding day last week and 419,000 a year ago.

Oats gave way with corn and wheat provisions were bid up by cash interests, notwithstanding downturns in hog values.

BOARD APPROVES NEW STREET PLANS

Assessments against owners of abutting property for the proposed improvement of Clover avenue in Clarens Heights, outside the city limits, were approved by the county commissioners in a public hearing this morning. The estimated cost of the improvement, which will be assessed entirely by assessments against property owners, is $2,000.

Petitions to make were obtained prior to choosing the improvement, the commissioners did not set a date for sale of the project.

MOVIE FLIER PLANS FINAL THRILLER

HOLLYWOOD — The screen's most daring aerial stunt man promises to settle down soon, not on the ground, but in sensible aviation.

Dick Grace, ace flier whose plane wrecks have been seen on the screen, plans a spectacular finish to his daredevil career by playing himself in his own story of movie stunt fliers, "The Lost Squadron."

The stunt calls for him to crash a plane into the ocean. In previous intentional crack-ups — and there are 34 on his record—he has had his crew around, ready to extricate him from the cockpit if necessary.

No Help This Time

For this, because it is in the water, he must work alone, after he has gone under with the plane.

"They'll take that scene," he grinned, "last of all. They'll have to. If I come out of it, I'm going to quit stunting and go in for aviation.

"No, I'm not going to become an actor, to stay in pictures without stunting. Aviation has a future, and that's my work."

His first aviation venture was a crack-up, not intentional. The son of a late chief justice of the North Dakota supreme court, Dick's first attempt to imitate the birds in a boyish contraption with wings led straight to the hospital after his take-off from the barn roof.

When the war came, he ran away to Canada to enlist in the Royal Flying corps.

Objections from home stopped that, and Dick went into training at the Pensacola naval air station.

Turned Movie Scenter

After air service at the front he returned home and came out to Hollywood with 20 cents in his pocket.

He became a stunt man in the movies and went in exclusively for air thrills.

The "Squadron of Death," which he organized, its members stunt fliers like himself, inspired the story of "The Lost Squadron"—and it is indeed lost, for Grace and two others are the only members who have not crashed to their deaths.

Grace has been in hospital after movie crashes only four times, once with a broken neck, suffered in the spectacular "Wings" crack-up.

Here's a thrilling star you've never seen in the movies—or at least you didn't know that Dick Grace piloted the planes that have crashed up, to the greater glory of the film heroes that crawled out of the debris afterwards. The photo indicates he does a good job—a little too good for comfort and safety.

Broken ribs he sustained in one crash he disregarded to make another, within a week, so as not to hold up production.

The second crash sent one of the broken ribs through a lung.

"You don't have time to think of yourself," says Grace.

"The nervous strain before a crash is terrible. I waited six weeks, day by day, to make the crack-up in "Wings," and I was a nervous wreck by the time everything was right. I'd lost something like 27 pounds — and that was the time I broke my neck."

And yet he calls it a "game!"

2 PERSONS DEAD IN "ROADHOUSE WAR"

TAMAQUA, Pa., Oct. 3—A man and a woman were shot and killed and another man seriously wounded by two gunmen early today in the Cornfield inn, a roadhouse near Barnesville.

HOME GROWN FOODS FADING FROM MARKET

Prices Show Slight Increase as End of Local Growing Season Nears.

The gradual withdrawal of home grown produce from local markets and a slight increase in prices the latter part of the week over the first were the outstanding features of the week's trade.

Continued fair weather may extend the time limit for this produce. Muskmelons have practically disappeared now and home grown tomatoes and mangoes are light in supply Dealers have received a few shipments of head lettuce, celery and other articles to replace the local produce

A heavy drain on the mango and pickle supply was caused by the demand for pickling purposes Green beans for canning also were in demand, dealers said.

The week saw the arrival of cranberries, Grimes Golden and Delicious apples, small bolting onions, bulk turnips, cocoanuts Spanish onions. Shipments of Florida oranges are expected soon. Watermelons have practically disappeared from the market and the peach supply continues to be small with the demand light. Peach prices ranged around 60 to 70 cents. The onion supply improved during the week with a heavy demand shown. Prices ranged around ten pounds for 25 or 30 cents, with lower prices quoted from some sources. Button radishes increased about two cents a bunch to seven cents at some dealers.

Prices on cranberries varied over the city, with general amounts being in the neighborhood of two pounds for 25 cents. Tokay grapes went back and forth a few cents during the week, with the average price being 10 cents a pound. Good movement was seen in the sale of Bartlett pears at three pounds for 25 cents generally.

BARBARA STANWYCK COMING TO OHIO

Critics have been kind to Barbara Stanwyck's picture, "Night Nurse," opening at the Ohio Sunday to play through Wednesday. The story is from Dora Macy's novel. Miss Macy wrote "Ex-Mistress" among other of her stories.

In support of Miss Stanwyck are Ben Lyon, Joan Blondell, Edward Nugent, Charles Winninger, Clark Gable, Allan Lane, Blanche Friderici and others. Gable's latest role is leading man to Greta Garbo in "Susan Lennox, Her Rise and Fall." William Wellman who directed "The Public Enemy" and "Wings" directed "Night Nurse."

Miss Stanwyck is having her own troubles in Hollywood, according to current gossip. Her husband, Frank Faye, wasn't a boxoffice attraction and the studio did not renew his contract. Miss Stanwyck puts love before a career, and if affairs at Warner Bros. studios don't end up with a contract for Faye, his beautiful and talented wife will forsake Hollywood and follow her husband back to Broadway.

Bacteria Killed by Shrill Noise, Scientist Finds

By The Associated Press

AUSTIN, Tex.—If you could make the right kind of noise, you might be able to exterminate much of the dangerous bacterial life about you.

Dr. O. B. Williams, associate professor of bacteriology in the University of Texas, working with Professor Newton Gaines of Texas Christian university, reports that germs "object" to loud noises, and are actually destroyed by high frequency audible sounds.

Dr. Williams produced high pitched sounds with an oscillating nickel tube wrapped with an electromagnet coil through which passed an oscillating electric current from two radiotron tubes. The frequency of sounds produced was 8800 cycles per second.

The upper end of the nickel tube was fitted into an inverted flask surrounded by water. The sound waves stirred the water into almost violent motion. A flask containing germs was suspended in the water.

After an hour half of the bacteria were dead, Dr Williams said.

It was found, he stated, that blood corpuscles could also be destroyed by high frequency audible sounds.

The American Association for the Advancement of Science has taken cognizance of Dr. Williams' research in this field.

married and was the last of his family

The old rumor that he had set aside a large sum years ago to be used in carrying on the assaults against the America cup after his death was rejuvenated but it was too early for definite information

Reports were current that several charitable institutions would benefit by his will but they apparently were based on remembrances of his philanthropic disposition and his gift of nearly 200 000 pounds to the poor of London on the occasion of Queen Victoria's jubilee

He had been a liberal supporter of charities ever since

Although he was reputed to be many times a millionaire some observers held that his estate likely would prove less valuable than popularly surmised because of his many gifts and the immense sums spent, on his line of Shamrock yachts

istration under which you are prohibition commissioner have I ever been given to understand that I as well as other inspectors was not to raid clubs where liquor was dispensed without first getting orders to do so from the department, nor have I ever been shifted from one part of the state to another soon after raiding some club or society where liquors were found," Baynham wrote

"I regret to say" he continued "that under your administration I as well as other inspectors have received instructions in regard to raiding clubs where liquors were dispensed such as to make us feel in danger of being let out if we should do so I feel embarrassed in admitting that I have in carrying out your instructions failed to raid clubs which my obligations and duty as an officer told me should be raided"

Nothing But Empties Found

Baynham said the department had been notified of the necessity of a raid on one club and that when it later was made "nothing except numerous liquor containers were found"

'More than once' he said 'have I been left to wonder why after raiding some prominent club or clubs such as at Lorain Canton or Youngstown and finding liquor I was removed to another part of the state"

The former inspector then referred to a raid on the Arion Singing society of Canton He said a copy of a letter from the society trustees was on file in Scars office and that it read "It will be impossible to sell the usual refreshments until the present state man is removed from this district and this we feel will happen at an early date' Baynham said he was the man referred to and that he was removed from the district shortly afterward

G. O. P. TO NAME CONVENTION CITY

Choice Likely To Be Made Soon Cleveland Favored.

By The Associated Press

WASHINGTON, Oct. 3—Republican leaders are considering advancing to early in December before congress meets, selection of the city where the party's 1932 presidential candidate will be chosen

Many bids are in prospect for the convention but the early speculation has narrowed the contest to one between Cleveland and Chicago The odds seem to favor the Ohio city where Calvin Coolidge was nominated in 1924

Senator Fess of Ohio, chairman of the Republican national committee will call it together to select the site He is conferring now with members of the executive committee on the date

Because of his duties in the senate, the chairman is inclined to favor the earlier meeting date. Congress reconvenes on December 7

While there have been reports of a reorganization of the committee at the December session Senator Fess is ready to carry on as chairman until the national convention in June.

JAPS OPEN UP AERIAL ATTACK

Concentration of Chinese Are Targets for Fighting Planes.

By The Associated Press

SHANGHAI, Oct. 3—Japanese fighting planes repeatedly bombed concentrations of either Chinese troops or bandits in the neighborhood of Mukden Manchuria today

Advices from the theater on the Sino-Japanese controversy also said Japanese troops had occupied Newchwang strategic point on a branch line of the Japanese operated South Manchurian railway

Both Japanese and Chinese press dispatches agreed that the Japanese military as not relaxing its grip on the occupied zones of Manchuria.

Japanese reports asserted the troop movements were protective expeditions allegedly necessitated by widespread lawlessness in southern Manchuria, but the Chinese countered with the statement that the Japanese were responsible for such conditions because their occupation of the areas in question had destroyed the machinery for the maintenance of order

All accounts agreed that southern Manchuria was filled with bandits and groups of marauding former soldiers whose units had been dispersed when the Japanese had marched in

Rengo news agency (Japanese) said the Chinese peace preservation committee established at Mukden after the Japanese occupation of that city was rapidly assuming the functions of a full fledged provincial government.

Meanwhile Chang Hsueh Liang governor of Manchuria looked on impotently from Peiping where he is receiving treatment in a hospital His power no longer extends beyond Chinchow where his lieutenant, General Chang Tso-Hsiang established headquarters for what remains of the old northeastern defense force

Will Fails To Guide Marital Destiny of Son

By The Associated Press

PASSADENA, Calif., Oct 3—Careful calculations of the late Henry D. Pownall, wealthy inventor of ice machinery, to guide through his will the marital destinies of his son were revealed as futile today

Young Pownall's income is $30 a month until he is 21 when under the terms of the will it will gradually increase to $180 a month at the age of 25

Pope Charges World's Ills Caused by Armament Race

By The Associated Press

VATICAN CITY, Oct. 3—Pope Pius XI in an apostolic letter to the priests of the world today cited the "frenzied race of armaments" as the primary cause of the world's distress, and advocated a "crusade of charity and succor" for the world's unemployed.

"The financial crisis, he writes is the "new league which menaces humanity"

"Priests of the church everywhere must give all they can to relieve those in need," the pontiff writes and if they need more they must get it from their superiors.

He wrote his letter yesterday, choosing that time because it was the feast day of the guardian angels.

The stricken people of the world he says, ask only the privilege of earning their bread, but many of them are unable to do so "in these days of hatred and of implacable war"

He attributes the world's misery to "rivalry of the peoples" and to enormous expenditures from the public wealth." The race for superiority in armaments he characterizes as one of the most important factors in this "extraordinary crisis"

There are three contributing agencies to relief, he asserts—"prayer, preaching and the press—all of which may spread the gospel of a crusade to aid the innocent.

"And now" the letter says, 'winter comes with its sufferings and privations to the poor and the tender infants Every day the plague of unemployment, already grave will become worse and worse'

The pontiff views the situation with trepidation' and appeals to 'all those with faith and Christian love to join the crusade he proposes lution to the problem of financing Ohio schools

All the receipts from such tax if enacted according to the plans of Cooper and Silver would be used for school purposes to bring relief to local communities where the expense of running a small school district is high

Cooper's associates, Silver said believe an increased tax on utilities is inevitable, and are ready to demand a boost as part of the Cooper campaign

The belief was further expressed that utility officials are aware that a clamor for an increase utility tax will be set up at the next session of the legislature and realize that consideration must be given on all inclusive program to benefit all taxing units

The proposed state tax on earned income, in his opinion will find immediate favor with farmers who unsuccessfully urged an income tax at the last session of the general assembly

The germ came from a monkey that died of infantile paralysis.

What can be seen can be combatted' the scientist stated.

If we find this germ is the germ of infantile paralysis, we can make from it anti-toxins and serums that may cure victims and prevent others from having the disease'

The Stars Say—

For Sunday, Oct. 4.

SUNDAY'S HOROSCOPE holds testimony of a great deal of activity, with much stirring about or possible commotion in the affairs. There may be high pressure in connection with new undertakings, with a sudden domestic or social upheaval, or possibly having a bearing on employment. Elders or the physical condition of women or children may be the cause of the excitement, but all call for calmness and self-control.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a year of great activity or high pressure in the affairs, with concern over employment, but a favorable aspect to new connections or fresh plans, especially those instigated by secret understandings or agreements. Personal affairs may exhibit unusual or unexpected denouncements. A child born on this day may be extremely high strung and energetic, and should carry on its projects with great decision and nerve, but its personal contacts and affairs may not prove so advantageous or happy.

Notable nativity: Rutherford B. Hayes, Ex-President United States.

For Monday, Oct. 5.

MONDAY'S ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST may not be interpreted as a very propitious one, excepting for some minor financial benefit or a degree of recognition or demonstration of friendship from those in high places. Otherwise there is portent of disturbance, disappointment or sorrow in personal as well as business affiliations. It is probable that there may be a sudden crisis in domestic affairs.

Those whose birthday it is are on the eve of a year of disturbing, unsatisfactory and disappointing affairs in business as well as private life. In the latter there may be an unfortunate development. Offsetting these stellar views is a promise of a financial benefit, of some preferment, service or honor from those in places of power or authority. A child born on this day may be supposed to be quick, alert, profound and precise in its personal relationships, although having a tendency of impatience and pessimism. It may be easily influenced by female associates.

Notable nativity: Charles A. Lindbergh, aviator.

NEW PASTOR TO SPEAK SUNDAY

Rev. Robert W. Hucke Here To Take Charge of New Pastorate.

Rev. Robert W. Hucke will preach his first sermon as pastor of First Reformed church at the Sunday morning service at 10:30. Rev. Mr. Hucke and his wife and small son arrived here the last of the week from Nanticoke City, Pa., where he served as pastor before receiving the call to the local church. He succeeds Rev. H. F. Weckmueller, pastor of Immanuel Reformed church in Indianapolis.

The first sermon will be on the subject, "The Simple Call of Christ." There will be no Sunday night service.

Monday night the congregation of the church will give a public reception for the new pastor and his family, in the recreation rooms of the church. Rally Day

A SERMONETTE
BY REV. PAUL H. BOURQUIN,
Pastor, Salem Evangelical Church.

Text: Matth. 9:29, "According to thy faith be it unto you."

RALLY day is a day of new beginnings in the activities of our churches. New resolutions and new plans are made, new efforts are put forth, new determinations are made, new enthusiasm is mustered to carry on the work of the church and its organizations.

Not only the leaders, but all church members are called to be laborers in the Lord's vineyard. There is much work to be done. Enough to do for every member of the church, of the Sunday school, of the choir, of the women's, men's and young people's organizations.

The Lord has equipped all in one way or the other to work in His vineyard. All have gifts, talents and opportunities that could constantly keep them busy. Some think, since they can not make speeches, or sing solos, or teach the Scriptures, they can not do anything worth while in the Master's kingdom. That's a mistake. Some of the greatest workers in the Master's Kingdom are not even able to walk or see or hear. We often hear or read of invalids who have a wonderful christian influence and power. Why? Because of their faith, a faith that will remove mountains.

God wants all His workers to have faith. Our accomplishments and our successes depend in a great measure upon our faith. God promises: "According to thy faith be it unto you." That is a great promise. Let us open wide the doors of our hearts unto it, and ask and undertake and expect great things for the Lord. Let us lay our plans wide and large.

He says "According to your faith be it unto you." That is as though He is handing us a blank check with His name signed and telling us: "Now fill it out yourself, write the amount in you wish and "According to your faith be it unto you." We need not be afraid that we will draw too much on God.

"For His grace and power are such None can ever ask too much."

After the battle of Gettysburg, when medicines were very scarce, Mr. Stuart, then at the head of the Christian commission, telegraphed to the merchants of Boston: "May I draw on you at sight for ten thousand dollars?" The telegram was posted in the Exchange. Thirty minutes later there flashed back on the wires: "Draw on us for sixty thousand dollars."

God sends His telegram to all believers. "Draw on me as much as you want and need. For, "According to your faith be it unto you."

But it must be a living faith, not lazy, indolent, inactive faith; but a living, working, practical, enthusiastic faith, a faith bubbling over with life and activity.

Unbelief stops every thing, prayer, expectation, work, hope, etc. It cuts the very nerve and sinus of effort. But Faith removes mountains, surmounts difficulties, overcomes the world, brings sure success.

About a Casket

By The Schaffner Queen Co.

Selection of a casket always comes at a time of much confusion and distress.

That is why it pays to secure the services of a funeral director of absolute integrity. He simplifies the choice by having the description and price of every casket in his display room plainly marked.

In that price, he includes embalming, use of the funeral establishment, or equipment for home or church, use of casket, coach and sedan, personal and staff services, decorating and protecting of grave for commitment service, and various other items—thus eliminating any deceiving list of "extras."

He carefully explains the differences in the various types, urges careful economy, and thus enables the family to have the strictest privacy while they are determining their choice.

This is the 49th of a series of editorial advertisements appearing in this paper each Saturday.

ALFALFA BILL HAS NEW PRESCRIPTION

By United Press

OKLAHOMA CITY—Prescription for the privation and care of expenditure has been formulated by Oklahoma's governor.

"When you are suffering from an attack of expenditure, you should stop eating all food and drink milk," said William H. (Alfalfa Bill) Murray, who has prescribed remedies for the nation's ill and other industries.

Murray's "cure" is a simple one to follow.

"If you will cut down your expenditures you will be able to live within your income and the rest will be easy," he said. "I do not suggest that anyone starve himself, but I do suggest that he eat simple foods, but of the best quality. When you get your expenditures and income balanced, you will be on the road to prosperity."

Taxes? Just Look at England, Rogers Says; and Yet They're Far from Broke

BY WILL ROGERS

WELL, all I know is just what I read in the Papers. Japan pounced on China. She has had China cut off from her hole for a long time, like a cat does a rat and just says, "I'll nab you when you make a run for it."

China is in pretty bad shape fighting amongst herself at home, and this Manchuria is a mighty valuable piece of territory and will make mighty nice reperations after the thing is over. You know you often hear it said that nobody got anything after the war. But what about the German Colonies? You don't see England or France or any of those giving any up do you? Germany I imagine would mortgage quite a lot to pay for them back. Thats one of the reasons that she is up against it, she hasent got those Colonies to transfer trade and raw material with.

China is so big and the names are so much alike that its hard to tell where she is fighting at. Texas and Louisiana had war. The Legislature of Texas called the Gov. of Louisiana a liar by vote. Just show you that anything can pass a Legislature. Its going to take about two years to prove that the old Boy in Louisiana is right. He says they shouldent plant any Cotton at all this year anywhere. Well they havent sold last years, or the years before cron, so why looks like they are right? It certainly wont hurt that land in the south to not plant anything on it for a year, for it has had a Negro and a Mule walking over it since 61.

There is so many things they can raise down there that they don't even know exists. There is feed and fertilizing crops that grow in other parts of the country that would be wonderful for their land but it could never get in the country on account of the Cotton which had a monopoly and wouldent let anything in. But if your Father and Grand Father raised wheat, why you must raise wheat, or if he raised Cotton, why Cotton is the only thing. Stick to your raising.

But those little arguments that look big at the time, why next week's paper they are all forgotten. Texas has got a pretty good bunch in their Infirmary there at Austin. It was just one spell binder that got em all worked up, over their Honor. You can always get a body of folks riled if you drag in that their honor has been attacked. Collectively we havent much more honor than we have individually, so its never enough to fight over.

Then England kicked up a mess a week or ten days ago when they did something about their Gold. I don't know what it was, but it created a lot of ink at the time. It looks like the world is on the Gold Standard but only two have got any gold, Us and France, and if things keep on like they have there wont be any us in there.

You see France is getting everything, for they went to work the day they got back from the War, and the rest of the Nations went on a spree, so France got back to normal when the Guns stopped shooting, and we are just getting back, but we havent been normal in so long that we dont recognize it since we got there.

This finance business has got this big Boys worried as much as the little ones that haven't got any of it. Here we talk about high taxes. Say, England can show you some taxes, they are getting what we will get if this unemployment keeps up, and it should be that way, there is lots of people able to pay yet over here before the Government starts in to do it itself. That was what Mr. Hoover was doing out in Detroit telling the American Legion not to start asking for aid again. You see, he believes in the people helping themselves right up to the time that's not possible, then the Government will help.

Now there is a lot to be said for his plan. There is certainly enough wealth to do it, but getting it away from the ones that have it is another thing. When you rely on just voluntary giving you see quite a hardship on the free giver. He will give till it hurts, while a man of perhaps much larger resources will give very little. So it looks like they got to get at this relief thing through taxation on large incomes. But that will all be fixed at the next session of Congress, as five hundred Congressmen and 100 Senators will all have schemes to remedy everything from depression to protruding Adams Apples. It will take two years to just read all the bills that will be introduced when the Legislative Capones meet.

Well I don't know if I told you or not about Ma Kennedy going and playing a return date with "What-a-Man." We was all in the midst of a lot of excitement out here, when Ma climbs right up on the most protruding rock over Boulder Dam and just took What-a-Man for better or for worse till another wife do them part. I never did get down to Sister Aimee's show I was telling you about, but they all told me it was mighty fine.

We are dragging along about as usual out here, raise lots to eat and its cheap, and its warm, we don't need much heat, and it looks like if the worst comes to the worst we could go through almost another Republican Administration.

By the way, they tell me Al Smith is making quite a stir in the east. They had a million Al Smith Buttons made and sold em right out. Course you can get your name on a button easier than you can get it on the letter box in front of the White House. But Al will surprise you with his strength, as we will have lots of angles and predictions to work on between now and next June. Cause Roosevelt will be a tough man to beat for that nomination. Then Calvin is coming out of the bushes I hear. Theres a great Quartette, Hoover, Smith, Coolidge, Roosevelt. There will be a lot of signing done before next November.

Sir Thomas Lipton.

America's liking for Sir Thomas Lipton, who died Friday, has arisen largely from interest in his persistent attempts to lift the America's cup, symbol of international yacht racing, from this country. A long list of "Shamrocks" each a little better than the one before, has qualified him as one of the world's keenest sportsmen. His late attempt, watched with universal interest in both England and the United States, was followed by a wave of popular acclamation in the United States that was unprecedented in the history of sports.

It is not generally known that Sir Thomas had ties in America even stronger than his intense interest in yachting. At the age of fifteen he emigrated to this country from Glasgow, where he was born, and worked, variously, as a grocery clerk, tram-driver, salesman and plantation hand. His subsequent career as a British merchant was founded largely on his early experiences in the United States.

Sir Thomas is associated closely with the most brilliant period in yachting, from the standpoint of popular interest. It is a question on what his permanent fame will be based—his career as a sportsman or as a merchant. Perhaps, it will be as both—a distinguished gentleman who built up one of the world's greatest business enterprises and had time left to enjoy a brilliant career as a builder, owner and master of racing yachts.

Federal treasury officials are said to be firm against the proposal of Senator Reed, of Pennsylvania, insisting that the sales tax, if any, must avoid necessities. That will suit the most of the population which hasn't been expending for anything beyond necessities.

Scientists of the University of California claim to have discovered in the Inyo mountain range fossils of starfish 300,000,000 years old. If the scientists aren't careful they are liable to make this planet of ours out to be somewhat aged.

In the view of Sir Martin Conway, the best kind of a ballot is that which stupid people will spoil, for by such a ballot the stupid are disfranchised. Evidently Sir Martin is a believer in minority government.

A Chicago bandit who secured thirty continuances of his trial was finally sentenced last week to from one to twenty years in the penitentiary. If he is equally successful in gaining stays of execution, he may yet die in freedom and offer another striking illustration of one of the most serious defects in American court procedure.

What Congressmen Should Know.

Many misunderstandings might be avoided if congressmen were to be registered according to their beliefs concerning the function of the state. Representative Fish, of New York who gained national prominence as an investigator of communism, is responsible for the idea.

He has committed himself in such a way as to leave no doubt. "It is the prime function of government to provide for the safety, happiness and security of its people," he has asserted. "I have no patience with any other philosophy of government, or any attempt to hide behind the federal constitution."

Mr Fish is to be commended for his frankness, and perhaps for his bravery in defying the men who hide behind the federal constitution. If he be informed, and graduation from Harvard after three years with a cum laude degree, indicates he is, he knows that the function of the state is a question that has tripped up just as capable men as he. They thought they knew, but the fact that even single, comparatively stable governments constantly slide back and forth between extremes of a state which is obstetrician, surrogate, tutor, business partner and undertaker for its citizens, and a state which is restricted closely to political activity demonstrates that no one is quite sure yet. At least the matter is hardly to be dismissed with a wave of the hand and a plea for a billion dollar bond issue to give employment, in the J. Hamilton Fish manner.

If that gentleman be concerned with what is going on in the minds of the masses out beyond the marbled terraces of Washington, he can discern a turbulent wave of resentment and irritation growing larger every day and already wetting the ankles of the "panarchistic" government coddled by men who believe, with Representative Fish, that the state should have its finger in everything and that every one should have its finger somewhere in, on or about the state. Americans have their faults, and expecting too much from the central government may be one of them, but they still have their individuality and, while they retain that, Representative Fish's kind of government that makes every citizen, willing or not, a pugnacher is going to have a fight for its life.

Once again, how interesting it would be if every congressman's views on the question were to be a matter of public record.

If I Were King.

Every one has his ideas and an undisputed title to them as long as he refrains from angering his opposition to the point where it takes action against him. So H. G. Wells, novelist, sociologist, historian and Utopian thinker commands a respectful audience when he tells what he would do to rehabilitate the world. Few will agree with him, some will act on his suggestions, and a great many will be angry with him, but no harm will be done. On the contrary, the mental stimulation may do some good.

Mr. Wells, first of all, would establish a world dictatorship of 'educated sense.' He would form a super government by pooling all foreign offices and diplomatic services, and organizing military, naval and air forces into one international debt structure. The continuing program of rehabilitation, following the initial steps, would depend on a world plan in which all nations would be forced to participate by the supergovernment.

An important part of Mr. Wells' Utopia would be a world-controlled credit system, using a single currency. This single currency, he asserts, constitutes a 'necessary preliminary to that rationalization of economic life which is the only sure foundation of world peace and prosperity.'

This is audacious dreaming but lest ridicule be excited too easily by its apparent impossibility of realization, reminder is made that the political dreams of Plato, Aristotle and Rousseau, to mention only three political philosophers, were no less impossible of realization in their time. They established goals, however, towards which nations moved, sometimes by intent, more often by accident.

Mr. Wells places unquestioning faith in the power of efficient organization to overcome weaknesses inherent in the people. "Educated common sense" some day will rule the earth, he hopes. Plato, too, dreamed of a "ruling class which would be fitted so perfectly for its work that it would make no mistakes. Those who are acquainted with Mr. Wells' Utopia, schemes in "anticipations," "a modern Utopia," and new worlds for old" will pardon this later scheme to rehabilitate the world as the commendable ambition of a brilliant man firmly convinced that there are better ways of doing things than the world is able to comprehend, in its present condition. Many people feel that way about it, but most of them fortunately, are willing to enjoy the green grass on their own side of the fence.

Leon Trotsky is "demanding" the abolition of Stalin's "bureaucratic dictatorship" of soviet Russia. It is worth noting that Mr. Trotsky is doing his demanding from the safe distance of Cracow, Poland.

The total of loans thus far made to veterans since the enactment of the fifty per cent. loan law, announced recently, is $772,436,114, paid out to 2,664,609 veterans. It would be interesting to know just how much unemployment relief was worked as a result of the payments.

Fire Prevention Week.

Fire one of the greatest of man's friends, is at the same time one of his worst enemies. Unfortunately for the cause of fire prevention, it is an enemy that too often remains unsuspected until the damage has been done. It is difficult to make the fire menace seem real.

Figures, in such cases, very often are meaningless because they represent hidden facts. For instance, the fact that the nation's fire bill in 1930, if it were to have been paid by a per capita tax would have been $4.16 for every person should be forceful, but quite likely is not because of its remoteness.

The most forceful persuasion for observing national fire prevention week, perhaps, is to be found in the individual's imagination. What would a fire mean to you? What have you done to prevent fire? What would you do in case of fire? The answer, if honestly given, comes closer to the point of fire prevention week than all the abstract arguments that could be made.

Society has gone to great expense to establish protection against fire, but instances revealing inability to cooperate with fire departments for its prevention and control are so numerous that there is some excuse for wondering whether people are really concerned about the danger in which they place themselves constantly. There is no question but that the most effective means of fire prevention is the exercise of ordinary common sense.

National fire prevention week, proclaimed officially by President Hoover, is sponsored by insurance interests. Their position is clear: they protect people against losses from fire and find it reasonable to request that the people in turn protect them against undue strains that might disturb the actuarial basis of fire insurance and make it necessary to readjust rates. It is more of the "enlightened selfishness" that has been so common in the last six months.

SOMETHING WRONG IN SITUATION

Editor Star—A few days ago there was an article in the paper written by a railroader, a Mr. Christ condemning the practice of the general public of using motor trucks for shipping freight instead of patronizing the railroads. He claims that the railroads are becoming financially weak on account of it. He says the merchants do not give their customers any of the benefit derived through this cheaper transportation but put the extra gain into their own greedy pockets. That is human nature.

Now the farmer has been advised that his only salvation is to lower his overhead and cheapen production. About the only meaning that advice carries is to work a little harder.

Now I am just wondering how Mr. Christ would respond to a suggestion that he accept a little cut in his wages so as to enable the railroad companies to lower their overhead to some extent. I do not suppose this would meet with his approval at all but it is coming the same as in the case of a great many other matters. When a man no matter whether he is a railroader or carpenter, blacksmith or whatever, can go out with no investment but his bare hands and a pair of overalls and make more money than a farmer with an investment of $20,000 and working twice as many hours there is something radically out of joint and there is no doubt in the mind of the writer that this same inequality has its contribution in the present economic depression.

EXPLORERS EVER.

Dr Herbert Spencer Dickey, first of white men, has seen the actual source of the Orinoco, the second river of South America. His journey has solved one of the geographical mysteries which remain in the southern continent and probably will make necessary a revision of the boundary lines between Brazil and Venezuela. The old authorities gave the river a length of about 1,500 miles. He traveled upstream a total distance of 1,750 miles. The striking thing about his story is that he refuses to admit that the expedition had any adventures whatever. They were some hardships and some dangers, but always the party of explorers were in touch with civilization by radio, and the natives, left unmolested, simply minded their own business.

Are there any more great rivers left anywhere on the globe for man to explore? Only a little more than fifty years ago bold adventurers of a half dozen nations were plunging into the depths of Africa, not to be heard from again for months and years, and perhaps never to emerge at all. Burton and Speke, Grant and Baker, Stanley, Kandt and Baumann, and a hundred more were seeking to find the source of the Nile. Conversely, others were trying to unriddle the gumbo of the Lualaba, the mighty river which flowed in central Africa, going nobody knew whither. It was Stanley who revealed the unsuspected magnitude of that river system and succeeded after almost incredible hardships in following it to its mouth. It and the Congo were one, but the Congo then had been traced only a hundred miles inland from the Atlantic. But after all is said, what marvel can compare with the wonder of the Mississippi as it carried Marquette below the mouth of the Ohio and La Salle all the way to the gulf? A few more years and men will be longing for new planets to explore.—Boston Herald.

THE BOOK PUBLISHERS BRIGHTEN.

Optimism something that has been conspicuously lacking in the book publishing business, is being manifested again as the industry approaches the fall season. A survey conducted by the New York Times reveals that sales during the past summer exceeds sales of a year ago that there is every evidence of an appreciable acceleration in the immediate offing.

If there is any encouragement in this report for the country at large, it lies in the unproved contention that in times of depression the people forego books as luxuries. Opposed to this is the frequent assertion that, during enforced idleness, people read more and therefore buy more books. So, one may take one's choice or dismiss the matter as of no significance at all.

However, the Times' survey does reveal an interesting fact concerning the tastes of readers generally. The industry plans, in answer to demand, to greatly increase the number of works of superior quality. There will be many serious biographies and works of economics, philosophy and international relations.

This may or may not indicate an improvement in taste, but it seemingly would show that the cheap and tawdry work of fiction is losing popularity after an extraordinary vogue. Not within memory has there been a time when the market was so flooded with literary trash as it now is. We hope the indicated public reaction against this condition materializes.—Columbus Dispatch.

Effect of Sunshine.

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

There is a substance called ergosterol, which is widely distributed in nature. A supply of it is to be found in the human body, particularly in the skin.

When the surface of the body is exposed to the sun or to other sources of ultra-violet radiation, this substance in the skin acts in a mysterious way to produce vitamin D. This vitamin in its turn goes through the body and promotes the deposit of lime in the bones, a process known as 'calcification' of the bones. This process is particularly important to give complete and perfect enameling of the teeth.

It is because of this health giving method of Mother Nature that sunbaths are so frequently recommended for the infant. The expectant mother, too, is advised to indulge in this health-promoting practice.

It is interesting to know that months before the child is born, the calcification process of the body begins. Not only have the bones started to form and grow, but the teeth have begun to take shape. It is during this period that the mother should have an abundant supply of lime, phosphorus and vitamin D. Lack of these three important substances results in imperfect calcification and a weak formation of bones and teeth. Without such lime deposits there are sure to be decayed teeth.

The importance of preventing tooth decay is tremendous. Many constitutional diseases and infections of the body may result from decay in the mouth. To prevent these evils it is best for every person to consume at least a quart of milk every day of his life. This may be taken either as whole milk or as a beverage. It may be taken in foods, such as cream soup, ice-cream and other combinations containing milk.

The growing child should have a careful diet which contains all of these important substances. Make sure that your children are having plenty of milk, eggs and other foods so important for the development of a strong, bony framework and healthy teeth.

The Inception of Alchemy.

BY ARCHIBALD HENDERSON.

The lore of China is as yet scarcely known even to scholars. An encyclopedia of China, presented to the League of Nations and now housed at Geneva, it is said to contain 400 volumes. Great discoveries, on the basis of doubtful evidence, have long been attributed to China. They are believed to have anticipated the Greeks in important mathematical finds. Many books contain the statements, though whether correctly or not remains to be finally determined, that oxygen, gunpowder, chinaware and printing, were all first discovered in China. Unfortunately, many Chinese records are lacking in dates. Even when the general period is approximately known, the documents contain many interpolations made in later times, causing endless doubt and uncertainty in the minds of investigators. Centuries yet may pass before scholars will be able to bring order out of the chaos of the immense mass of heterogenous Chinese documents which have been preserved.

In all probability, alchemy was an indigenous product of China. Dr O. E. Johnson suggests that it arose out of the philosophy of Taoism. In this scheme the entire universe was identical in substance interpenetrated by a cosmic soul. All minerals or metals were supposed to contain some proportion of two fundamental substances. During the reign of the famous emperor, Wu Ti—140-86 B. C.—there was made the first attempt, recorded in Chinese history, to transmute metals by artificial means. In the fourth century of our era, Ko Hung wrote an important work dealing in part with alchemy. Subjects dealt with are the transmutation of metals, elixirs of life, ascetic rules for prolonging life, and even methods of attaining immortality.

Scholars do not doubt states Holmyard in "Makers of Chemistry," that the Chinese made many discoveries independently, regarding properties of minerals. They were certainly acquainted with such substances as red and yellow arsenic sulphides, sulphur, cinnabar, alum, salt, white arsenic, oyster shells, mica, chalk, and the sap of the pine tree, for making medicaments.

There was certainly a close connection between the alchemy of China and of Islam. Whether the one was derived from the other, or whether they had a common source, has not yet been determined. The first Arab ships dropped anchor at Canton in 714 A. D. E. O. von Lippman, generally recognized as the greatest living historian of chemistry, advances the view that alchemy proper reached China from the West some time during the eighth century A. D.—Copyright, 1931, International Feature Service, Inc.

Storm-Battered Helgoland.

BY TEMPLE MANNING.

The immense naval stronghold that Germany built on the island of Helgoland and used during the World war was destroyed by order of the Allies. For three years the inhabitants who had returned to their home island from banishment in Germany listened to the detonations of the lyddite that was used to destroy the Fatherland's mighty naval base.

Today peace and prosperity would rule in Helgoland if the relentless sea could be checked in its work of destruction on the great dune on which is located the famous island seabaths.

A fierce storm during the fall of 1928 demolished a good part of the dune and the more pessimistic of the natives believe that it is only a question of time when the rest of it will slide into the sea, wrecking the chief attraction for summer tourists.

One of the most interesting features of the island are the rock sentinels—isolated rocks off the shore—some of which stand two hundred feet high.

In June and July thousands of sea ducks known as lummen can be found on the island. These come from Greenland and Iceland for the mating season and as soon as their young are able to fly—this generally happens around August—they are off to their homes in the far north.

The people of Helgoland throughout centuries of rule by other nations have valiantly struggled to retain their native habits and customs.

German is the official language, but the Helgolanders speak, when among their fellow men, a dialect of Friesian. During festive occasions they wear their colorful native costumes. Helgoland—orphan of the sea—is unlike any other spot in the entire world. It has a very definite charm although one tinged with the pathos of tragedy.

Its future depends on the vagaries of the sea.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, Oct. 3.—Wherever one goes in New York the main topic is the "New Era." So far as I can gather it is a manifestation of a change in civilization although we used to have a nickle plated anthracite stove bearing the same name. Anyway old eras seem played out.

Personally I have never been much of an era boy although my uncle was. Erysipelas I think he called it and was he a sight! Now and then I have gone in a little for epochs, but they became embarrassing. Every time I'd speak of an epoch folks thought I was hiccupping.

For instance, I was at a dinner at Tom Cook's one evening and when conversation slowed up I remarked brightly: "Tom mighty happy we are all living in this epoch." A butler hurried toward me with a glass of water and told me to hold my breath and take ten sips.

If you don't believe it sounds like a hiccup say epoch real fast. Didn't I tell you? Acting a fool this way I've taken on a real bat of hiccups. Whenever the typewriter spells out "hrdlicka" that means I have just let go of a rousing bur-burp.

If I get the hiccups I sit around stiff as a poker—hrdlicka—fearing some one is going to pop out from somewhere and frighten me. As a matter of fact that—hrdlicka—is a dangerous thing to do. They tell me that many stutterers are frightened hiccupers.

Pu-pup-pup-people—for heaven sakes what's going on?—who hiccup should never—hrdlicka—be excited. I got to get away from goofy stuff like this or I'll be catching at my thumbs. What I started out to write about in the first place was the "New Era."

One of the strange phenomenons of writing is the sudden way it tangos off into a tangent. Who would think a piece that started out to discuss a phase of our national life would all at once take up such silly topics as hiccups and stuttering? I'm going to start afresh.

The "New Era" as I understand it, means that most of us have been doing everything wrong and will now begin all over again from scratch. In a way this column today is a symbol of the "New Era." Up until this paragraph it was all muddled and so I began all over again and how look! Did you ever see anything skim along so smoothly? I am writing this with practically no effort whatever. Just to show you how easy it is, I am holding one foot up off the floor. Where I put in a few dots that will mean I got up and walked around my chair . . . And here I am back again, pecking along and checking out a column as naturally and as gracefully as anything.

I remember back in the old era when I'd squat before my machine for hours tugging at an ear lobe, gazing dejectedly out the window, picking up dodads on my desk and putting them down again, aimlessly tapping at the shift key and penciling hieroglyphics on pads. But all that is in the past. The "New Era" dawns and finds me prepared. Never can it be honestly said I have failed in my era work. When the test came I was a one.

* * *

It seems no longer than yesterday that I sat at my desk a forlorn and crumpled bit of humanity broken on life's wheel. Just a relic of the old era. A timid knock came at the door. "Come in!" I whimpered, for after living through about four eras your voice begins to quiver. It was old Uncle Enoch, my black body servant. 'Marsta," he said, "it'll soon be here. The way they're yelling it must be at about Fifty-Fourth street." I knew what it was and never flinched. I held to my desk and with Uncle Enoch's assistance, rose to my feet and placed a trembling hand to my forehead in attitude of salute. It was like that—as any of the news reel pictures will show—I greeted the 'New Era."

* * *

Here and there I run across a few of the poor old era gang. They are still hugging their delusions and wondering what it is all about. Two I met this morning didn't know how many Spanish pesetas make a dollar. In fact one of them didn't even know the pesets had fallen. Its being up on things like that that makes us snappy "New Era" boys the cards we are today.—Copyright, 1931, McNaught Syndicate Inc.

Some Big Fish Stories.

BY J. H. GALBRAITH.

Either the Sandusky river for many miles above its mouth was formerly as prolific in fish as the Columbia river is in its salmon or Dr. Brainerd, whose manuscripts are sources of much information of this river in its early days told fish stories that are likely to stand unrivaled. As in the case of the Columbia and its salmon, it was at the spawning season that the Sandusky was fairly choked with fish according to the Brainerd manuscripts. And instead of salmon it was whitefish, sturgeon, catfish and bass that rushed up the Sandusky in unbelievable numbers.

Naturally the shoals were the places where the fish gathered in greatest numbers favorable for spawning beds, and several travelers in northern Ohio in the early days agree that when they attempted to ford the Sandusky at riffles in the spring of the year they found the water so full of fish that the horses found difficulty in securing place for their feet and instances were known when it was necessary to make a demonstration to scare the fish away before the ford could be negotiated.

One writer tells of as many as three wagon loads of fish being brought out with one draw of a large seine worked by a team of horses on the bank, and of sturgeon and catfish being taken weighing as much as seventy pounds. Fish food was in considerable demand among the settlers, and the condition made a large demand for salt in order that the fish caught so abundantly at this season might be preserved for use later.

Sometimes wagons bringing wheat to the river for shipment would be taken back to the places from which they came loaded with fish to find a market in places remote from the water.

It is still to be noted that fish pass up the rivers entering Lake Erie in the spring in considerable numbers but never to the extent of choking the channels in the shallow places as these stories of the early Sandusky river bare it.

Crafty designs are inspired particularly by the small apartment.

There is the dining problem, for instance, where there is no dining room. The latest answer is the "cabinet dinette," and we forgive it its name because of its service. Between meals, it is a charming maple or mahogany pier cabinet, with open shelves below, and may be used as a desk or telephone stand. But, with one pull, the front drops and there is a gate leg supporting a table for two or three, while the shelves are ready for the china.

The furniture designers are not satisfied with changing the styles of traditional tables and chairs and other large pieces, but any small accessory which adds to comfort is re-designed for new grace and usefulness.

And if they discover something which ought to be but isn't, they immediately serve up a new creation.

Among living room accessories, the newest card tables have become real furniture, although easily collapsed and hidden. The latest magazine rack, so necessary for a literary but not a litter air, owes its lines to a music rack designed by none other than Thomas Jefferson. It moves around on casters.

For the bedroom, especially, new conveniences are being created every day. The closet must now have a suitcase rack, and a step stool to help reach the top shelf. A silent valet (coat and trousers rack) for the man, and a small sewing stand for the woman are welcomed for utility, at least. And even the lowly shoe-shining kit is now transferred into a maple or mahogany footstool.

Those who never liked the look of umbrella racks may be converted by the new iron rack in a Directoire design, with crossed arrow ends. It is so different from some of the contraptions which have spoiled halls that it may even become a real decorative "unit," combined with an etagere (whatnot to your grandmother), designed to match, hung above it.

Just Things

Tragedies

THERE are no tragedies like those of youth and neither are there glories that can compare with those of the period. Were you ever the "lead" in the big production, "admission five pins," and suffer painful injuries in your act? If you were, you know how it feels and if you weren't you know only too well that feeling of wishing you were. Of course there are times when the hero is too scared to take advantage of the glory which is his but we who never were heros of this sort feel that such a thing could not be possible. Proof of the pudding is brought by one who bore eyewitness to the abrupt ending to a matinee performance when the main trapeze performer dropped feet first to the floor at the same time a plank in the haymow chose to break from its moorings with the result that the great toe was nearly severed. Imagine being bourne home, pale and bleeding on the shoulder of your fellow showmen! But not so this lad, he was pale allright but he set a pace for the horse stretch that left fellow troupers and customers so far behind that by the time they had regained their breath a half toe was nothing to get excited about.

Namesakes

IT'S RATHER flattering we think to have a namesake, even if it is just an animal. Not that we would care to have all sorts of animals named for us and certainly we would draw the line at a certain few, but nice animals, why that's a compliment. Imagine having a big, fluffy Persian kitten named for you or a masterful Great Dane proclaiming to an admiring public that he bore your John Henry, or better yet, doesn't it set you preening to learn that a velvety-eyed plush-coated, well-manner baby calf would be registered for posterity's enlightenment with the letters lined up the same as your own.

Nicknames

AND speaking of names, why nicknames anyhow? Try to figure out why anyone should have to answer to Squint, Blubber, Pood, Slim, Biddy, Fat, Billie Doogan, Foxy Grandpa, Squirrel, Spider, Moose, Brownie, Red and on down the line. But they did and do.

e," she assented. "It's really no sign that they've finally made the decision to operate."

"But this looks like it," she added as the door of the library opened, and Harry Underwood, followed by the surgeon came into the hall. The surgeon's shirt-sleeves were rolled to the elbow, and he had the air of a man nerved to some particular task which he dislikes and over which he is nervous.

"You can wash up right in here," Harry Underwood said, leading the way to a little lavatory at the end of the hall. He did not look at either of us as he passed, but I noticed that he stood in the open doorway of the lavatory while the surgeon was giving his hands the thorough washing preliminary to the care Katherine would have to take of them before they went into action, and that their conversation was distinctly audible to us. I guess that this was a ruse of the big man to give us the news we craved, and to which we were entitled, without disturbing the delicate balance of the surgeon's nerves, patiently at high tension.

"I don't like it." These were the first words we heard. They were spoken by the surgeon, and his voice was petlish, annoyed.

"It's distinctly irregular," he went on. "He should have been taken to the hospital in the first place. Operating on a kitchen table, forsooth!"

"Haven't you ever done it, Doctor?" There was something in Mr. Underwood's tone which appeared to get under the skin of the other man.

"Of course I've done it," he snapped. "I've operated by candlelight when the electric failed, and I've had many an emergency appendectomy on a kitchen table. I've had one on shipboard. But those were necessities. Where it's a possible thing to get to a hospital, as in this case, I don't like it."

"I thought we'd gone over that." The big man's voice was patient. "You told us yourself the man would probably die in the ambulance before getting to the hospital."

"He'll probably die on the operating table before we begin work."

There was stubbornness in the surgeon's voice.

"I know," Mr. Underwood's voice was placating, "but I thought you understood how vital it is that he be able to tell us what is behind this injury, even if he dies immediately afterwards."

"You ought to know that the chances are fifty to one against his ever regaining consciousness," the surgeon said. And I saw that he had shifted his line of defense. He would make no more open objection to the operation but would find an outlet for his nervousness over the unusual ordeal in petty quibbling.

"I know you're right," Mr. Underwood said, "but I've known them to come back at a thousand to one shot, over there," he gestured toward the east.

Ready for the Operation

"Oh!" the surgeon's voice held a note of comradeship, "you were in this branch across?"

"Ambulance service," Mr. Underwood replied briefly. "Where do you want that table? The man's been scrubbing it for the last ten minutes."

"In the room we just left," the surgeon said. "If we've got to do this job here, we'd better get at it."

SAM

CHAPTER 31
Covered Dynamite

PEAK tipped back her chin. "I have a strong feeling that I'm going to kiss you—like this!"

Sam put her head on his shoulder. "Now talk to me, will you, please. Tell me about something."

"Let me see." Peak frowned for a moment and then brightened. "I have it! I have the precise thing. We'll talk about our wedding. We'll discuss churches, and bridesmaids, and spats. We'll decide whether it is to be next Wednesday or whether I must be tortured until Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock."

"Wednesday? Saturday?" Sam sat up very straight. "Why I couldn't possibly be ready anywhere near that soon! Why—"

"Look here," said Peak sternly, what's the matter with next Saturday, or next Wednesday, for that matter? They seem like jolly days to me. A bit remote, perhaps, but—"

"Peak!" said Sam firmly. "Will you please stop being silly, and listen to me?

"If we ordered the invitations tomorrow morning they might possibly be ready in a week. In that case we could be married three weeks later. That would make it four weeks from tomorrow."

"Four weeks from tomorrow!"

"Not a day sooner. Even that will be hurrying things terribly."

"All right. Four weeks from tomorrow it is." He groaned again. "Four miserable, eternal weeks."

The next morning Sam felt light, buoyant, carefree. Her car ran more smoothly than ever before. The traffic on the way to town was not an annoying conflict, but a friendly rubbing of shoulders with a pleasant world.

Sam entered the Express building, and threaded her way among many desks. Just before she reached the glazed door of Peak's office a hand was laid on her arm.

It was her half-brother, Nelson. His expression was sombre. "Good morning, Sam. Can you spare time to talk to me for a minute?"

"Of course." She nodded and smiled herself at an empty desk nearby. Nelson pulled up a chair and sat down beside her. She smiled at him. "What's on your mind?"

He scowled. "It's Martha."

"Oh." Sam's voice came up. "I didn't think you'd be worrying about her this morning. I thought everything was all fixed up. I assumed, you'll be glad to hear, when I saw the checkbook in Peak's office a bank draft for—"

"I don't want to discuss that with you, Sam. I'm not worrying about Martha. I'm worrying about you. I'm worried about you and Peak. I don't want you to be—"

"Thank you for—"

"Don't interrupt. I don't like the whole affair. I feel that you are making a mistake. I don't want you to be—"

"Nelson, please don't say anything more. I'm sorry, but I don't want to discuss—"

"Sam, you've got to listen to me. I'm your brother. I've got a right to—"

"Nelson, please!
